

Abstrakt v anglickém jazyce

This rigorous thesis is dealing with the Community Interest Society. In the first chapter, the legal persons are generally described. Their history, structure, definition and terms are described. The following part evaluates generally the Community Interest Society as a legal person and puts it into the legal system. The second chapter deals with the legal regulation of the Community Interest Society within the Czech legal system. The third chapter deals with origin and founding of the Community Interest Society, the fourth chapter deals with its dissolving, liquidation and decline. The fifth chapter deals with obligatory authorities like director, board of directors, and supervisory board. The sixth chapter deals with the new legal code which will be legally forced on 1st January 2014 and its influences on the Community Interest Society. In the seventh chapter the economy and activities of the Community Interest Society are discussed. In the last but one chapter there is a survey into foreign legal regulation of the Community Interest Society and specifically the Slovak legal regulation are described. The last chapter briefly informs about transformation of the legal assembly into a Community Interest Society. This thesis is finished by the conclusion.